

A Student tells you they have COVID-19

Students do not have to share this information with instructors, they may be looking for flexible attendance or an extension for an assignment, or generally next steps.

*Please advise your student to:
Not to come to campus &
Call Student Health Services*

Classroom Management is helpful to us

- Create “Zones”, “Squads” or “Groups”, even a class seating chart. This is helpful to students who may not know everyone in their class, or last names.

Students calls Student Health Services (SHS)

LAC: (562) 938-4210

PCC: (562) 938-3992

Student will receive Support and Guidance

SHS provides positive COVID-19 Students with support and guidance with a return to campus date

Student will be informed of a “Return to Campus” date

SHS will notify students that are in close contact directly and if they need to quarantine, as well as their return to campus date

SHS will inform Risk Exposure to others

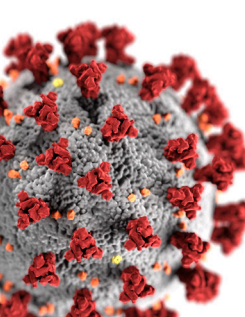

SHS remains HIPAA compliant and we do not share names or medical records with others, including instructors

SHS notifies LBCC Risk Management & Long Beach Health Department

Faculty and staff will be told if they have been exposed by Human Resources.

LBCC Facilities is contact for a cleaning, if required

District Wide letter will be sent out, if meets criteria

Notifications are sent directly to positive students and close contacts, SHS does not notify instructors about possible situations in the classrooms. The general district wide email is also sent to allow everyone know there is a possibility of exposure in that building. This allows individuals to be vigilant in their own personal healthy decisions, or could be used as reminder to wear your mask on campus, or make changes in the classroom experience.
