WHAT IS A LISTENING SESSION?

The Listening Sessions will allow LBCC faculty to discuss in an open and honest forum their individual and shared experiences with racism at the interpersonal, cultural, and systemic levels within LBCC. Additional Listening Sessions for staff and students are also being scheduled.

Each Listening Session will include dialogues for racial affinity groups (groups organized around a racial identity shared by all participants) and will be offered in:

- Bi/Multiracial
(Note: this group is for people who are biologically connected to more than one racial group)
- Black/African American
- Latinx
- Pacific Islander/Asian/Desi
- White

DIALOGUE OBJECTIVES:

- Share meaningful experiences with racism and racial justice within the LBCC community
- Build connections with others who share a racial identity
- Practice building intentional culture where discussion and reflection of racial identities, racism, and racial justice occur routinely and honestly
