ABOUT THE SOCIAL JUSTICE STUDIES PROGRAM

The Social Justice Studies program at Long Beach City College provides students with an interdisciplinary understanding of the concepts, theories, and methods related to social injustices based on social class, gender, sexuality, race, culture, ethnicity, religion, disability, language, and other statuses in order to create a more equitable society.

This LBCC program is designed for students who care deeply about an array of social justice issues and provides a Social Sciences understanding of the systemic roots of inequity as well as potential solutions and remedies to social injustices.

LBCC offers core courses in philosophy and sociology as well as electives in a variety of other disciplines. Beyond traditional curriculum the focus is placed on social justice issues in the greater Long Beach community, linking students with local community organizing efforts and social justice organizations.

The Social Justice Studies Associate Degree for Transfer (AD-T) is designed to prepare students to transfer to the California State University (CSU) system where they will receive preferential transfer status for a Social Justice Studies major or a related discipline.

EXPERT FACULTY WITH DECADES OF EXPERIENCE

The LBCC faculty members teaching the Social Justice curriculum have breadth and depth of both graduate education and teaching experience. They are passionate about addressing equity for all and exploring the issues raised by students in their respective classes.
